WE NOMINATE

James Isbell Armstrong, the second able and perceptive Princetonian to be "tapped" for a top educational post in recent months, who this past week—following the "lead" of James A. Perkins, president-designate of Cornell University—was named 12th president of 163-year old Middlebury College, one of this country's most distinguished, and aggressive, liberal arts colleges. To Middlebury, with its internationally known language-training programs and its facilities in Western Europe, belongs the credit for attracting a Princeton-born scholar-teacher with a record of achievement commanding the attention of a score of major institutions.

About to be 41, and formerly Associate Dean of Princeton University's Graduate School, this versatile classicist has received, and declined, several flattering offers over the past two years and has figured prominently in speculations bearing upon "presidential openings" from New England to the Rocky Mountain States. Middlebury, for instance, screened well over 125 names for its presidency and, in its announcement of Armstrong's election, could stress: "Letters of recommendation from college and university officials throughout the country lauded Armstrong in superlative terms in describing him as an able administrator, an inspiring teacher and a warm and friendly personality."

"The Daily Princetonian," in headlining "Armstrong Typifies Advance of Princetonians to President," dramatized the striking similarities between Armstrong's career and that of his lifelong friend, the 10th president of Princeton, Robert F. Goheen. The son of a beloved member of the Princeton Seminary Faculty, Armstrong—a year behind Goheen as a Princeton undergraduate—also "majored" in Classics, carried off Phi Beta Kappa honors and served with distinction with the World War II army in the Pacific. Following V-J Day, some 13 months after Goheen had been singled out for one of the first four Woodrow Wilson Fellowships, Armstrong was in the second group of young scholars "tapped" for a Wilson award.

Down into the 1950's Goheen and Armstrong (the latter's scholarly interests are centered in Greek literature with emphasis on the Homeric Epics) "came of age" as members of the University's crackerjack Department of Classics. In 1954 Armstrong succeeded Goheen as Scribner Preceptor, a post reserved for assistant professors of marked promise, and as a Preceptor spent a year in Rome as a Senior Classical Fellow under a Prix de Rome Award. Armstrong in 1958 was appointed Dean of the Graduate School and three years later became Associate Dean.

Ever since World War II, with the exception of a year as an instructor in Indiana University (1949-50) and an "unanticipated year" of active duty with the Armed Forces in Germany (1951-52), Armstrong has played active roles in Gown and Town affairs. While carrying such added University responsibilities as Executive Secretary of a Special Committee on the Underclass Years, or as a Secretary of the University Committee on Research in the Humanities and Social Sciences, he has also made time for a variety of "outside interests," including the vice-chairmanship of the Board of Miss Fine's School, service as an Elder in the First Presbyterian Church, membership on the governing bodies of the Westminster Foundation, the Student Christian Association and the Princeton Day Schools.

For possessing those qualities of leadership that in the words of the Middlebury Trustees "will enable him to lift the College to new heights of accomplishment"; for sharing with other top-flight educators the Wilsonian conviction that "liberal education is a power, not an ornament"; for his "residual, or built-in, sense of service to others"; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee as

A LOOK AHEAD

By Township Planners. "We have considered the whole Princeton community, not just the Township, in laying down our planning objectives," Gerald Breese, Township Planning Board chairman, said at a press conference held Friday to explain the Township Planning Board's first—and hopefully, annual—report.

"This is risky business, of course," Mr. Breese continued, "and there may be some rumbling from Borough residents, but we are not being presumptuous, and certainly not trying to dictate to the Borough what its objectives should be. We on the Township Planning Board feel that you cannot see the objectives of one community without the other."

In January of last year, the Township began the first of a six-year continuing planning project under the so-called 50-40 state aid program (a designation based on the formula for allotting state money). This report is the outcome of the program's first year. Copies may be obtained at the public library and at Township Hall.

In subsequent weeks, the Township's planning consultant, Jack M. Kendree, retained under the continuing planning program, will outline to the press the work done by his firm and the Planning Board on such matters as population, the tax base, land use, capital improvements and the like.

A Handle on the Future. "A community does have some kind of handle on its future," Mr. Breese said, commenting on the report's statement that a community can determine its own character and take the necessary steps to maintain it.

"Each of the nine members of the Planning Board did his own thinking on community objectives, starting in September of last year," Mr. Breese explained, "and then we made community completely built-up according to present zoning regulations of both municipalities.

Hopefully, the community would be a buffer, an oasis, between the urban sprawls of New York City on one side, and Philadelphia on the other. Board members point out that Princeton is one of the few communities in New Jersey with the capacity to maintain its character in the face of this creeping expansion, and that, accordingly, Princeton has a special obligation to define its planning objectives.

Not a Shopping Center. Basically, the Board wants to keep Princeton an education-research center, not the business center of a "tributary area."

The emphasis should be on providing attractive residential areas and adequate services, with a balanced recreation program for all ages, public buildings designed and made available for multi-purpose uses, such as meetings, sports in school gymnasiums and the like.

A circulation system should be designed to by-pass all through traffic, and yet provide internal routes so that one part of the community can be reached from another.

With business geared to the needs of the Princeton community rather than to the needs of the "hinterland," commercial development would be controlled so that haphazard patterns and so-called "ribbon" growth—that is, business establishments stringing out along a highway—would not take place.

It is even possible that the old-fashioned neighborhood store, the place to buy an emergency loaf of bread, might be incorporated into some areas.

Housing standards "shall be as high as possible in the interests of public health, general welfare and safety." The Board believes in what the report calls "an adequate range of housing types... with multiple-family housing confined to the community's central area and its vicinity."

HOUSING DEBATED

At Council Meeting. Two early-season political storms have descended upon the Princeton Housing Authority. The issues were aired Tuesday night at a crowded session of Borough Council.

Dr. Joseph R. Strayer, Democratic candidate for Council, stated in a letter (TOWN TOPICS, March 7) that Council has refused to consider the Authority's proposal to develop eight acres on North Harrison Street as "Lloyd Homes," a housing project for the elderly.

And charges of segregation in Authority projects, made to Governor Hughes by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, were refuted by Philip Minis, Authority commissioner. He stated that there are six Negro families among the 20 tenants of the Franklin and Maple Terrace projects. Hageman Homes on Clay Street, he said, were built in a primarily Negro neighborhood. "Any segregation which exists there, existed prior to the Housing Authority—not because of it."

Housing For Whom? Dr. Strayer's letter was a plea on behalf of retired workers. "You are telling people that they can work for us, but they cannot live with us."

But, according to the recollection of Mayor Henry S. Patterson, the Authority's proposal, first presented in January at an executive session of the Planning Board, "was about middle income housing, and the definition of middle income housing was $10,000 a year."

The mayor said that this proposal did not meet with much approval from the Planning Board that night. "But we talked about it later and decided to investigate it further." The board's objection was cost of the land, "which we found was four times more than anticipated."

Housing Authority representatives stated that funds for Lloyd Homes would be borrowed from the Federal Government and repaid from rentals. The local unit has already received $11,160 from the national agency to finance its explorations into possible sites.

Mrs. Gloria Michael, Authority staff member, read from the organization's minutes of January 9 which stated that both plans had been presented and turned down. Copies of the minutes were sent, she said, to the mayor and to Councilman Alan Carrick. The mayor's half-recollection was that housing for the elderly was presented by Mrs. Michael on the telephone as an alternative to the middle-income project when he relayed Council's decision.

PUBLIC OR PRIVATE? Eight acres of vacant land lie north of the firehouse on Harrison Street. Two Princeton developers would like to build on it according to the map shown above, erecting 26 single family homes on 10,000-square-foot lots and seven two-family homes on 12,000-square-foot lots. But the Borough Housing Authority would like to use the land for homes for the elderly and for moderate-income families, especially retired school teachers. (See "Mailbox," page 16) So far, Borough Council has said "no" to public housing. No formal request has been made by the private investors.

"You get the impression," said Councilman Alfred E. Sorenson, "that over the years Council has given short shrift to the matter of public housing. This isn't the case at all." He cited investigations of sites off Alexander Street, near the sewer field, in the Township, Witherspoon Lane. "Either the Federal Government or public opinion knocked them down."

Brian Moore of the Planning Board added, "It was only on the appeal of the mayor that the board kept its mind open on this last one."

Mayor and Council offered to reconsider the matter with the Authority whose regional office is demanding repayment of its $11,160. The Authority, Mrs. Michael told Town Topics, will welcome suggestions,

In town-gown relations, the platform disapproves "recent deterioration in (these) relations and the intemperate charges that have resulted therefrom." Recognizing that educational institutions must grow, the Democrats urge better communications between "town" and "gown" so that this growth can be explained and understood.

"We believe in the eventual and complete consolidation of the Borough and the Township," says the Democrats, and then ask for creation of a Joint Public Service Commission to supervise sewers, water, garbage, snow removal and, eventually, public transportation.

The platform also supports the continuation of an Open Space philosophy in the Borough, and the creation of recreation facilities jointly with the Township. On traffic, the platform reaffirms the stand of the Democratic candidate for

SUIT FILED

Against Johnson and Wife. A California couple has begun a foreclosure suit against J. Seward Johnson Jr. and his estranged wife, Barbara. The suit charges the Johnsons with failing to fully repay a $36,000 mortgage on their $90,000 home at 75 Cleveland Lane, which was the scene of a divorce raid by private detectives last month.

Mr. and Mrs. Morton W. Lieberman of Mill Valley, Calif., filed the suit in Trenton's Chancery Court, stating that the Johnsons became indebted to them in the amount of $36,500 on January 15, 1957. The nature of the debt was not disclosed but the suit said the Princeton couple agreed the whole amount would become due 30 days after they failed to pay any of the quarterly installments.

On January 15 this year, according to the suit, the Johnsons failed to repay principal and interest totalling $781. The suit was filed on February 18, three days after the waiting period.

Last year, the Federal Government filed liens of $75,000 against Mr. Johnson for income taxes in 1957, 1958, 1959 and 1961. The income tax matter was made a part of Mr. Johnson's divorce petition. On February 16, Superior Court judge awarded Mrs. Johnson and her two children $900 monthly support from her husband.

Mr. Johnson, currently unemployed, is reportedly the beneficiary of a large trust fund set up by his family, part owners of the Johnson & Johnson pharmaceutical firm of New Brunswick. The preliminary hearing has been suspended, pending the recovery of one of the private detectives who is still in Princeton Hospital in fair condition.

The detective, Harvey D. Blount, was allegedly shot five times by Mrs. Johnson when, she charged he attempted to pull her from her bed.

STUDIO IN PRINCETON

NBC Tuned Out by Hopewell. The Nassau Broadcasting Company may decide to broadcast from studios in Princeton. Hoping to build a 10-room, one-story studio next to its radio towers on the Pennington-Mount Rose Road (instead of the two-room building originally planned), NBC had applied for permission to the Hopewell Township Zoning Board. The hearing was to have been held last Friday.

But a strong current of citizen opposition began to form, and a group of about 50 property-owners who live near the towers, decided to petition the zoning board to deny permission for the structure.

Just a few hours before the hearing on Friday, Nassau Broadcasting withdrew its application, and about 70 residents who had turned out for the show were left with nothing to do but go home. (Telephone notice had been given to all residents legally concerned with the hearing.)

Ralph Mason, attorney for NBC, said the broadcasting company would probably build the two-story structure next to the radio towers on the Hopewell property and use it for a transmitter and an emergency studio. Another, larger studio may be acquired in Princeton, Mr. Mason said.

No location has been announced, or even chosen. Probably no zoning problems would be encountered, Mr. Mason indicated.

Nassau Broadcasting won from Superior Court a ruling that it could keep its six, 187-foot radio towers after Hopewell Township Committee, spurred by citizen protest, had ordered NBC to tear them down.

In its ruling that the towers could remain, the Court also said that a small studio could be built under the permit granted by the Township.

Residents of Hopewell are expected to ask Committee to appeal the Superior Court decision. Former Mayor Lester E. Huff has said that Committee will not appeal, but the present mayor, Paul M. Van Wegen, says that this is not a final decision.

NBC had said, during court hearings, that it did not intend to build commercial facilities and sales offices in the residential area. According to Mr. Huff, however, NBC applied for permission to erect a lar-

"GALILEO" OPENS

In "Ladders" Series, "Galileo" is excellent. After an overblow "Bourgeois Gentleman" and a flat "Julius Caesar," the professional company at McCarter has presented us with an exciting production of Bertold Brecht's "Galileo," scheduled to be played again in an extra performance this Thursday at 7:30, and this Saturday at 8:30 and Sunday at 3. The production is the third of four offerings in the winter-spring "Ladders of Ambition" series. We have seen the middle-class social climber in 17th century France, the ambitious tyrant and the ambitious enemies who would succeed him and now, in "Galileo," we have the scientist engrossed in the search for truth — but not above claiming to be the inventor of a fabulous new instrument that was really invented by somebody else.

Taking his cue from the historical fact that Galileo did recant before the Inquisition his belief in the heliocentric theory, Brecht has drawn for us a scientist, who is honest enough in his search for truth, but perfectly capable of toadying and deceiving to gain his ends.

The end he seeks, however, places him several rungs higher on the ladder of ambition than those who preceded him in the McCarter series for Galileo seeks the truth. Brecht shows him as a modern man, a modern scholar irascible with fools, impatient with teaching because his pupils take away the time he wants to give to research. He is a sycophant when he needs time and money so that he can think and work. One can almost see him applying for Ford Foundation money.

He recants because he is afraid of the physical pain of torture. Living out his last years as a prisoner in his own house, he explains to a disillusioned former student the rationale behind his recanting. He was afraid of pain, yes, but after all, how much can a dead martyr contribute to science?

This Galileo is both cerebral and visceral, a genius with his head in the stars and his stomach full of good food. In the words of one character, he is a man who "cannot say 'no' to an old wine — or a new thought."

He is portrayed splendidly by Laurence Luckinbill who communicates both these aspects of the astronomer's personality with a fine and sinewy realism, that is sustained over the 33 years covered by the action of the play. Luckinbill is consistent, believable and strong in the role. It is well that this is so, because "Galileo" is a play that revolves, even as the earth around the sun, solely around its central character. Without a competent and consistent actor in the role, the whole thing might shatter.

Supporting players are equally strong. Young Stephen

ANOTHER WHO RECANTS: In Brecht's "Galileo," George Reinhold changes his mind about Carol Teitel in the course of time and the young daughter of Galileo leads a life of embittered spinsterhood as a result. Nothing personal in the young man's change of heart; he just doesn't like her father's outlook on life. (Tom Miner Photo)

Kraft as the boy Andrea has the poise and projection of an experienced adult; Carol Teitel as Galileo's embittered daughter; Keith Herrington as a friendly cardinal who engages in a brilliant duel of aphorisms with Galileo; George Reinhold as the snitter whose hostility to Galileo's position makes him cast aside the astronomer's daughter — all are steady and credible in their roles.

If one weakness can be found in the production, it is Brecht's insistence on using a trio of ballad singers to inform the audience between scenes that a decade of two has passed. The singers have good voices and they perform well, but they are saddled with a maddening, tinny little tune that starts out like "Twinkle, twinkle little star" and musically, never goes much farther.

Lyrically, the ballad singers aren't much better off. As an example, they are forced (under threat of torture?) to sing things like this: "Galileo, feeling grim, a young monk came to visit him; he was born of common folk; it was of science that they spoke."

But don't let this irritant discourage you. "Galileo" is a strong and provocative play, eminently worth seeing.

RECITAL SOLD OUT
Benefit Nets $414. The monologue recital to be given this Sunday at 8 in Murray Theatre by Cecelia Hodges for the benefit of the Study Center and Tutoring Program has been sold out.

Because of fire regulations, no standing room may be sold. Mrs. Peter Putnam, chairman of the recital committee, has asked those who have tickets and cannot use them to give them to those who can.

The benefit recital has netted $414 for the Study Center in Dorothea House, and although there are no more seats to be sold, the Center is still accepting financial contributions. Checks may be made out to D.D. Putnam and mailed to Mrs. Putnam at 48 Roper Road. Continued on Page 6

The Calbird Seat. THURS.-FRI. 8:30; SAT. Battle at 7 and 10:35; Waltz at 8:35 only.

Sunday, March 17, the New Strand invites you over to meet the Youngers. The Youngers are an intelligent and respectable family who could be your neighbors. They could be, but they aren't, because the Youngers are Negroes.

They are just an ordinary Negro family from the south side of Chicago. In no danger of being lynched, and with no great desire to enter the hallowed halls of the University of Miss.

Their aspirations, in fact, are rather shallow, all they want are the things we white folks take for granted and even have begun to sneer at, like labor-saving household appliances, a home in the suburbs, and job security. Their persistent struggle toward these modest attainments, and the persistent resistance they meet from the white community is the greatest problem this country faced or has ever faced.

True social equality for Negroes (and they will accept nothing less) cannot be accomplished by legislation or judicial decision; it can only be attained when each white person in the community accepts or rejects each Negro as a neighbor or a friend solely on the basis of his virtues or his shortcomings as an individual.

To judge them, we must first meet them and try to understand them. That is why the New Strand would like you to come out and meet the Youngers. Might as well; they will soon be your neighbors. Perhaps some day their children will marry yours.

BENEFIT NETS $2,000

For Regional Ballet. Slightly more than $2,000 was realized by the American Ballet Theatre benefit performance for the establishment of a Princeton Regional Ballet, it was announced this week.

An organization meeting for the new Regional Ballet will be held in late spring. Director, staff and officers will be chosen and announced later, and auditions for dancers will be held in the fall.

Officers of the Princeton Ballet Society, sponsors for the event, have expressed their thanks to the Princeton community for supporting the benefit program.

"RHINOCEROS" EN ROUTE

Cast Rehearsing. Sets and properties are an important part of Eugene Ionesco's "Rhinceros," and behind-the-scenes activity for the Community Players' forthcoming production is almost as lively as the rehearsals out front.

"Rhinceros" will open April 4 at Muray Theatre on campus under the direction of John Harayda with Loren Zissman in the Zero Mostel role.

Eric James, vice-president in charge of production, is the backstage boss, working with a crew consisting of Helen Van Zandt, scenery; Caroline Siera, properties; Arthur Monsen, lighting; J. Rogers Woolston, sound; Shirley Rennie, costumes and Isabel Abelson, make-up.

Donald G. Warnock, Jr., is the set designer for "Rhinceros," as he was for Players' productions of "The Male Animal" and "The Drunkard." Other members of the technical crews are Neal Holland, Victor Auerbach, Virginia Hanlon, Rose Mintz, Sue Rosner, Maria Zambela, Phyllis Collins, Sylvia Fontijn and Miriam Leinwell.

ABOUT MY "DUMB WIFE" . .

P.C.D. To Give Play. "The Man who Married a Dumb Wife" will be paraded for public view next Friday and Saturday, March 22 and 23, when Princeton Country Day School's Dramatic Club gives its annual production.

Starring in Anatole France's costume farce will be William G. Sayen as The Wife and Kevin Kennedy as The Man. John Scheide will play Lawyer Adam Fumee. All three actors are veterans of past P.C.D. productions.

Other speaking parts will be assumed by David Battle, Thomas Gaman, Hale Andrews, Graham Mathews, Richard Hill and Ray Colcord.

A large supporting cast of gorgeous women, street-criers, pages and musicians will include such experienced performers as Donald Woodbridge, Guy Erdman, Hollis McLoughlin, Christopher Laughlin, John Strong, Geoffrey Hoguet, Jonathan Mark, Charles Katzenbach, William Ring, Christopher Reeve, Brent Vine, Stephen Vine, Michael Desmond and David French.

Herbert McNeny is the director. Gary Lott is the scene designer and foreman of a student crew whose members are building sets.

Before the 8:15 curtain on both nights, the School Band will entertain the audience. Tickets may be obtained from any boy at the school, and will also be on sale at the door.

PLAYHOUSE AND PRINCE

A Girl Named Tamiko (now playing) is a drama of passion and betrayal. The plot concerns the efforts of a cynical and vicious Eurasian photographer, played by Laurence Harvey, to obtain a visa for emigration from Japan to America. He loathes Japan and its people, believing that he can become wealthy and famous in America. To attain this goal, he uses his attractiveness to coerce women into helping him expedite the red tape.

France Nuyen portrays the unforgettable Tamiko, a high-born Japanese, who makes Harvey aware of the moral order that governs all men, and makes him face his destiny. In accomplishing this, she falls in love with him and slowly breaks with the age-old traditions by which she has been taught to live.

Martha Hyer plays a glamorous, complex American girl who uses men as unscrupulously as Harvey uses women. Miyoshi Umeki portrays a Ginza B-girl who understands Harvey's drives, but is nonetheless his willing slave.

The cast also includes Gary Merrill as Miss Hyer's "protector," and Michael Wilding

PLANT AND NOW

Rest While you Can. A recent tour of the gladiolus department at Rorer's in Hopewell led us to the conclusion that spring is inevitable.

You'll have to choose from 10 different colors unless you want them all, which you may very well. Six cents each is the price, $4.50 for 100, and as you stand and look at the bare brown bulbs, nestled in their bed of peat moss, you'll be able to see in your mind's eye, the splendid, tall colorful spikes in this summer's sunshine.

For this summer's shade, Rorer's has double begonias at 35 cents each, $3.50 a dozen, to grow in a shady terrace planter or on a quiet porch. Hanging basket varieties are here, too, just to keep the begonia family together.

On the seed side, we find our old friend Burpee and a new friend—to us, anyway—named Fredonia. In the Fredonia seed collection we found our favorite of them all: dandelion seed, of all things. (Thick leaf, for your information.) The idea of planting dandelions in neat little rows and harvesting the leaves for wine and then letting the puffballs of seed fall where they may around the neighborhood...

But to get back to more constructive pursuits, you might consider planting seeds from Rorer's immense bulk-seed collection, serried ranks of jars holding Wong Bok (Chinese cabbage) seed, eight other varieties of cabbage, kohlrabi and all the herbs you'd ever want in a pot, like fennel and sage, coriander and dill, marjoram, basil and thyme.

St. Patrick's Day is the day to plant peas, and Rorer's will provide you with three kinds—

Look Who's Here!

You'd never guess who we met at Red Barn Casuals the other day. Maggy Rouff, the French designer, of all people Maggy is represented by a pair of spring suits from her atelier, but she might as well have been around in the flesh.

One suit is a silk tweed in navy and white with A-line skirt and brief jacket lined with navy silk and firmed up at the edges by a dozen rows of stitching which show up pleasantly and unobtrusively when the jacket swings back. The jacket collar is small and stand-up. The navy silk blouse ties narrowly at the neckline.

The other suit is pale blue and silver-grey silk tweed with light turquoise silk jacket lining and a matching blouse whose inevitable neckline bow has buttonholes that anchor it to the blouse after you've done the tying.

Price tags: Not so stiff as you might think.

two bush and one pole. String beans will string along later, and here you may choose from three green and two yellow varieties, pole and bush in the green-pod kind.

Onion sets and seed potatoes will be along in a day or two, and then you'll want to think about the tools to do the job, like Rorer's 20-inch Eclipse tiller for $129.95. A nice investment.

Then, for lawns, there is Eclipse's new self-propelled rotary, a 22-inch one for $149.95 that will be along just about the time the grass is ready to cut. (This is lighter than the usual self-propelled mower, by the way.)

Well, meanwhile, things are going on inside the house, and with the housewife in mind, Rorer's has taken on a new line of windowshades, the Clopay, which come in an all-plastic ($1.69) or a Duplex ($1.98) model in a pallet of colors including natural linen, pastel pink and the like. Bring the tip-to-tip measurement of your old rod, and Rorer's will cut a shade for you right there while you wait.

Stanley drapery accessories now in the Hopewell store will help along the window dressing. Traverse, cafe and standard rods are all lined up with the accessories so that you examine and choose.

CASUAL, BUT OH MY!

Spring at Red Barn. The sign out front says "casual clothes," but the new spring arrivals at Red Barn Casuals on Route 206 are not exactly meant for spring garden work.

We are thinking, not only of Maggy Rouff, but of a raspberry pink dress with bow at neck, long sleeves and a full length sleeveless pink mohair coat over all.

And of a pure silk sleeveless skimmer with graceful, curving floral sprays against the cream silk and a full-length Rajah-style coat of raw silk, with slightly flaring A-line and low mandarin collar. About as casual as an engraved invitation.

ARIA GROFF COMING

For Seminary Concert. The ensemble of musicians who take time out of their concert and teaching schedules to join together as the Bach Aria Group for the performance of cantata selections will appear in McCarter Theatre next Thursday, March 21, at 8:30 p.m.

The Group will appear as part of the celebrations commemorating the sesquicentennial of Princeton Theological Seminary. The concert date, March 21, is the 278th anniversary of the birth of Johann Sebastian Bach.

Vocal soloists with the group will be Eileen Farrell, Norman Farrow, Jan Peerce, and Carol Smith. The instrumentalists will be Julius Baker, flute; Robert Bloom, oboe; Bernard Greenhouse, cello and Paul Ulanowsky, piano. William H. Scheide, 133 Library Place, is founder and director of the Bach Aria Group.

Singers and instrumentalists will present about 18 selections from the cantatas of Bach. Tickets for the concert are available at the Seminary or at the University Store upon a donation of $4 for orchestra and front balcony, or $3 for regular balcony seats.

QUARTET TO PLAY

19th, 20th Century Works. Schubert's rarely performed Quintet in C major, Opus 143, will be played this Sunday by members of the Stringart Quartet when the group appears in Procter Hall of the Graduate College under the sponsorship of the Friends of Music at Princeton. The program will begin at 3:30 and is open to the public without charge.

George Roehberg's String Quartet No. 2 with voice will also be played. Janice Harvanyi will join the Stringart a soprano soloist for this work whose text is drawn from the 9th Duma Elegy by Rainer Maria Rilke. For the Schubert quintet, Samuel Belenko, cellist, will assist the Stringart members.

Mr. Roehberg's quartet, written in 1961, was commissioned by Contemporary Chamber Music Society of Philadelphia Inc. and has been widely performed since that time. Mr. Roehberg, winner of various awards in music, is chairman of the department of music at the University of Pennsylvania.

The Stringart Quartet is composed of players with the Philadelphia Orchestra who, as a chamber ensemble, serve as artists-in-residence at the University of Pennsylvania. In 1950, they founded the Philadelphia "Coffee Concerts" series and in 1958 they established the Contemporary Chamber Music Society of Philadelphia. (Continued on Page 10)

GARDEN

David and Lisa (now playing) concerns two sensitive, emotionally disturbed adolescents. The setting is a school for disturbed children.

Two unknown young people, Keir Dullea and Janet Margolin play the leading roles. Howard Da Silva is the school head, and Clifton James is the therapist who works particularly with Miss Margolin. Her performance is brilliant, in view of her difficult role of a young girl, practically mute, who speaks only in a child-like rhyming pattern. The boy, Dullea, is high strung, intelligent and resentful of Da Silva, the school and everyone around him. He fears the touch of a hand — as liable to cause death.

The manner in which the two young people find something in common, the fashion in which the therapy gradually draws them out of their mental prison until finally they come to find understanding and a dawning love for each other, makes some of the most moving, emotionally-charged scenes in film history. There was a reason indeed why "David and Lisa" captured a first prize at the Venice Film Festival this year as the best picture by a new director. The direction was a first attempt by Paul M. Heller, erstwhile art director. Comment: brilliant first.

NEW STRAND

Battle of the Sexes and Waltz of the Toreadors (Thurs. thru Sat.) are two examples of comedian Peter Sellers in action. His characteristic, similar to Charlie Chaplin, is that of a "little fellow" who triumphs (not always through virtue) in a big, hard world.

The cast of "The Battle of the Sexes," a film based on James Thurber's story "The Calbird Seal," includes Constance Cummings and Robert Morley. Sellers plays an inhumanly efficient bookkeeper who locks horns with a charming female efficiency expert — with the impact of an irresistible force meeting an immovable object.

In "Waltz of the Toreadors," Sellers as an amorous, aging general, is again over-matched . . . this time by his ailing, nagging wife, played by Margaret Leighton, and his mistress-in-name-only, (Dany Robin) with whom he has been carrying on an unconsummated love affair for 17 years. Despite innumerable tactical reverses, he contrives somehow to Save the Day. Comment: British fun.

Raisin in the Sun (Sunday eve only) Lorraine Hansberry, author of the award-winning stage play, has written the film version. Sidney Poitier and Ruby Dee star as the Younger family, who as Negroes from the south side of Chicago, struggle against second-class citizenship. (See advertisement, page 5.)

How to enjoy the finest in Home Music

A stereophonic sound system in your home provides the finest possible mechanical reproduction of recorded music and FM radio. Never before has such concert hall fidelity been available for home listeners.

The stereo system is different in several ways to ordinary high fidelity reproduction. In the first place stereo sound begins with two separate channels being recorded on each disc.

The record must be reproduced on a dual stylus record player. The new stereo record players will reproduce regular single channel records you now have, plus the new stereo records. Present single channel record players can be converted to stereo by the addition of a new stereo pickup head.

Two separate amplifier sections are required to amplify the two stereo sections of the recordings — and finally the sound is delivered in your home from two separate speakers.

This sound complicated and expensive? Actually, it is relatively simple and moderate in cost. You can buy stereo sound two ways . . .

a. in a complete unit, with second speaker in matching cabinet. Such units are in stock from Fisher.

b. assemble your own built-in stereo from balanced Fisher components, using dual University speakers.

All components and helpful suggestions are yours from the Music Shop Dept.

You can't know how much finer reproduction is possible from stereo until you hear it yourself. Come to the Music Shop Dept. and you can listen anytime to a demonstration of stereo music. Once you hear this great improvement in mechanical sound reproduction, you'll be convinced that the future of home music is in stereo sound. Why not hear it Today?

a coat with a sloping shawl collar that slims down in a narrow V. Under the coat is a silk shift with a string tie at the waist. The color is called "mint green" but you'll find it the slim paleness of a new green leaf.

For walking, or just for showing off, Red Barn has a three-piece outfit that starts with a black linen shell and goes on to a Glen plaid skirt in black and white and ends with a deeply collared Glen plaid cape punctuated with three square black buttons and two patch pockets.

Swiss Pymian (acetate and nylon) makes a knit with straight skirt and overblouse characterized by very short raglan sleeves and wide-open neckline edged with deep ribbing.

But we wouldn't want you to think that the "casual" label has been dropped at Red Barn. Just to prove it—here's a tropical turquoise print wrap-around skirt in dacron and cotton. Relaxed, gay and fully lined.

LILACS IN MARCH

For Keeps. Walk into The Flower Coop on Palmer Square and you're in a bower of lilac and pansy, peony and tulip. Somehow these fake flowers get better and better with each season, probably as the plant hybridizers learn more and more about the genetics of plastics . . .

Well. At the moment, spring is afoot, and Flower Coop suggests the purchase of two daffodils for 55 cents. They are pale yellow, bright yellow or yellow and white, and gay as anything on a dark March day. You could mix them with a preposterous yellow peony, and some yellow parrot tulips with colleagues that shade into orange.

If you like purple better, look at three shades of lilac, meaning lilac, purple and white, the most realistic flowers you ever saw. There are matching delphiniums and pansies, too, and a bucket of petunias in a spill of pinks and purples.

After you've recovered from the shock of the yellow peony, look at the deep—well, peony pink is the only possible description—and the white ones. These have the soft, shaggy center look of a true, real peony and are really quite impressive.

At the moment, Flower Coop is happiest with its copies of 17th century Flemish arrangements, crisp and formal as a rustling gold and satin gown. The flowers, in formal little bouquets, are grouped in feminine pinks and blues, rich golds and greens, or even all gold.

Each flower and leaf is delicately antiqued with gold, just enough for elegance and not enough for ostentation. Priced from $6 to $30.

Music In Princeton
MISS FORRESTER HEARD
Sings at McCarter. The final concert in Series I of the Princeton University Concerts, on Monday evening at McCarter Theatre, presented the contralto Maureen Forrester and the pianist John Newman. Their program included a group of Spanish songs, and cycles by Schumann, Poulenc, Britten and Brahms.

To put the matter bluntly, Miss Forrester is one of the great singers — and not merely a great singer in the abstract. She is a great singer of songs. Quite clearly, she believes that songs are about words, and that the words are meant to be understood. This is not all, however; the impeccable diction is not that of the literary soprano or the intellectual baritone, who present us with readings of poetry which happen to have pitches in the middle of every syllable. Songs are about music, too, and Miss Forrester gives us lines and phrases in a seamless legato, with rock-solid intonation, a sure sense of rhythm, and a seemingly infallible sense for the musical shape of a song.

Given such a voice, such technique, and such musicianship, a singer needs no tricks of literary emphasis, no display of vocal virtuosity; every syllable is cleanly and precisely articulated on the flowing legato tone, and the "expression" takes care of itself — which is to say, the "expression" which is composed into the song is most tellingly projected. Perhaps Miss Forrester's greatest virtue is her straightforward-

Choir to Sing
"Music at Large" is the program, Channel 13 the source, the Princeton High School Choir the star. The choir has taped a program to be broadcast over Channel 13 next Tuesday at 9 p.m. and again on March 23 at 7:30 p.m.
In addition, Jane Watson, a member of the choir, will describe the group's European trip in an interview this Saturday at 6:30 over Channel 13.
Under the direction of their leader, Thomas Hilbish, the choir will sing "Die Abend," "Nachten," and "Zum Schluss" by Brahms, "O Magna Mystrium" by Peter Maxwell Davies, the Cantata Number One by Anton Webern and a section of the Bach Magnificat. Julia Premon will be soloist.

ness, her honesty as an interpreter; one was never conscious of the singer "doing something with" the song, but simply of the song itself — and this is the highest praise which can be given to an artist.

The program, with one exception, was as noteworthy as the singing. Perhaps most welcome was the Schumann "Liederkreis" to texts by Eichendorff; for somewhat obscure reasons, this cycle is rarely performed, although some of the individual items turn up with some frequency. As a totality, it is quite the equal of the "Dichterliebe," and the poetry far superior to that of the "Frauenliebe und Leben." The inclusion, in the program, of full texts and translations for these songs was a welcome benefaction; if songs are about words, the audience, after all, must understand them too.

Similarly of note, from the standpoint of repertory, was the inclusion of two contemporary cycles, "Le Travail du Peintre" by the late Francis Poulenc, and Benjamin Britten's "A Charm of Lullabies" — of which the former offered sophistication, the latter considerably greater substance. The final group, Brahms' "Zigeunerlieder", was somewhat broader in tempo than in some of Miss Forrester's previous performances, but the strong rhythmic impulse was maintained throughout.

Only against the first group, four songs from the Spanish renaissance (one originally for voice and lute, and three polyphonic villancicos), and one from the eighteenth century, could a dissent be voiced — not against the singing, but against the "realizations" for piano by the Norwegian composer Arne Domrugaard. These violated nearly every feature of the original composition except the vocal lines, defacing the harmonies with absurd and unstylistic suspensions, destroying the phrase structures with conflicting irrelevant counterpoints, and altering the forms with superfluous preludes and interludes.

Throughout the evening, Mr. Newman's playing was finely attuned to the singer, although more assertiveness, less discretion in the Schumann would have been further gain. His fit it moment was in the last encore, Schubert's "Musensohn", which was projected with a fine bouncing rhythm, putting to shame all the chirruping performances to which we are usually subjected. This was a revelation, but then so was everything Miss Forrester sang, and the only real flaw in the concert was that it had to end.

ingswood and leader of the American Council of Churches and the International Council of Churches. The Rev. Mr. McIntire has led demonstrations against the Russian visitors since their arrival. He maintains that his group has definite evidence that the Russian churchmen "are responsible to the Russian secret police and that they are here to gather information about how anti-Communist the American churches really are."

Some 20-25 cars and 100 pickets took place in the demonstration.

LOANS OFFERED

To High School Seniors. The Kiwanis Club of Princeton has begun a program in which a limited number of loans will be available to area high school seniors who plan to enter college next fall.

The loans, in the amount of $250 per year, may be renewed each year the student is in college. There will be no interest on the loans until after graduation and principal will not be due until a full year after graduation and may be payable over a six-year period.

Open to all seniors residing in the greater Princeton area, the program will stress need and a desire for a college education and self-improvement as the primary qualification. High academic ability will not be a prerequisite.

Requests for applications should be mailed to Dr. Russell S. Edmonds, R.D. 3. Selections will be made by the Student Loan Committee, of which Dr. Edmonds is chairman.

Other members of the committee are Harold E. Miller, Stephen P. Hritz, Henry Stratton, Bernard Kilgore and Dr. Glen H. Simmons. Funds are provided by the Kiwanis Club "Adventure Film Series."

PLAN 13 HOUSES

If Township Agrees. An informal plan to build 13 houses on a portion of the Horatio Turner property, "Mansgrove," off Jefferson Road was presented Monday to the Township Planning Board.

Delwin Gregory and Edwin Paroe, represented by A. C. Reeves Hicks, submitted the proposal, pointing out to the Board that they were only potential buyers of the property. The Township's proposed extension of Terhune Road runs across the Turner land, and Mr. Hicks told the board that Mr. Turner may refuse to dedicate the right-of-way to the Township.

According to Mr. Hicks, the 13 houses would be built on quarter-acre plots and would be reached by means of a road going in from Jefferson Road and forming a cul de sac.

Mr. Turner had hoped to sell his "Mansgrove" land for an apartment project called "Mansgrove Gardens" but last year the Township Zoning Board, after a long series of hearings, denied him permission to do so.

ARCHITECT SUED

By Sand Hills Church. A law suit, charging defective design, has been lodged against architect Jules Grigory of Lambertville by the Community Presbyterian Church of the Sand Hills. The complaint was filed with County Clerk Bergen N. Carter Jr., in Hunterdon County Superior Court, Flemington.

The suit states that the louvers, or slits, which support the open portion of the chapel were discovered defective due to design last July 15. Work was halted October 1 because of the alleged defect.

It claims that the congregation has been deprived of its chapel which it "urgently needs for worship."

Worship services are currently held in the educational building, which was completed in July. The air-conditioned chapel is contemporary in design and has no perpendicular walls nor ventilating windows.

The architect has included a great deal of plate glass and colored glass in the structure.

Silvester, salesmen for Nassau-Conover Motor Company, Route 206, are among some 450 Ford car and truck salesmen in the Philadelphia district to be honored at a banquet in the Latin Casino, Cherry Hill, for outstanding sales performances during 1962. They will be presented with the Ford Motor Company's 300-500 Club award.

The 300-500 Club was founded in 1950 to recognize the performance of outstanding Ford salesmen. The average 300-500 member sold nearly $400,000 worth of automobiles in qualifying for the national honor.

LIGHTS WILL BE ALTERED

On Nassau to Aid Drivers. The traffic flow at two of the Borough's most congested intersections, Bayard Lane and Stockton, and Washington Road and Nassau — will be eased within the next two weeks by altering the traffic lights involved.

Police Chief Peter J. McCrohan reported this week that he and officials of the State Highway Department have completed a traffic survey of Nassau Street and that the Department agreed to make the following changes he requested.

The light at Bayard Lane and Stockton will be changed so that traffic heading into Princeton will receive a "leading" green light of eight seconds duration, permitting drivers to turn left onto Bayard Lane or continue east on Nassau Street. Another change will be a "holding" red light of a 2-second interval that will hold traffic in all directions.

This holding is designed to help clear the intersection, particularly traffic out of Bayard Lane, turning left onto Nassau. On many occasions, according to Chief McCrohan, these cars do not have time to make their turn before the traffic from Nassau Street begins to bear down on them.

A similar change will be installed at Washington Road-Nassau, where traffic leaving Washington will be given a leading green of 8.5 seconds before traffic is permitted to move from Vandeventer. Both directions will then receive the customary green duration of 20.3 seconds.

It will appear to drivers on the opposite side of the light that those receiving the leading green lights will be moving before traffic is permitted to Housing Proposal Killed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In order to amplify the public letter of Professor Joseph R. Strayer, we believe the proposal of the Housing Authority should be stated explicitly.

At the January meeting of the Planning Board, representatives of the Authority presented a proposal to construct 25 units of housing for the elderly and 25 for families of moderate income on eight acres of land. To document need for the units for the elderly, it was pointed out that the Authority already has 17 candidates for such housing in the projects it now operates. Hageman Homes on Clay Street, Franklin Terrace and Maple Terrace on Franklin Avenue opposite the hospital.

If these were moved into apartments of smaller size, additional space would be available for some of the 147 Borough applicants now on file for lower income housing. In addition, the Board of Education expects 12 to 15 retirements. Many of these would be prime candidates for housing for the elderly, so the proposed 25 units for elderly can be called only minimal.

In order to insure serving the best interests of the Borough, the Authority proposed that priority be given in rental of the 25 units for moderate income families to employees of the Board of Education. Forty-two percent of its staff now live outside the Princeton area, a rise of approximately 5 percent since 1962, and the Authority has been informed any help it could give in providing accommodations for teachers would be invaluable.

Housing built under this proposal would cost the Borough nothing. Funds are initially lent by the Federal Government, the debt is then bonded privately and paid off over a period of years. Ten percent of all rents are paid to the Borough in lieu of taxes. For instance, Hageman Homes now pays $1700 a year, a figure which proportionately compares favorably with the amount paid annually by the University.

It should also be made clear that all housing operated by the Authority is for the benefit of Princeton people. Only bona fide residents of Princeton Borough are admitted as tenants.

The day following the presentation, Mayor Patterson informed the Executive Director of the Authority that the Planning Board was interested in having the matter pursued further. The Board particularly wanted to know if the 50 units could be constructed in such a way as to leave a large portion of the land undeveloped.

Upon inquiry, the federal Public Housing Administration stated that the 50 units could be constructed upon four acres, but the remaining four could either be purchased by the Borough for a park or that it might be acquired for open space through the Community Facilities Program. However, before action could be taken, PHA must have notice from Mayor and Council supporting the proposal and approving the site.

Person To Person

Cory S. Kommler

A friend was talking about magnetism as an illustration of one of the things that man has known about for thousands of years but still is not quite sure why it works. The properties of the natural magnet (lodestone) were written about hundreds of years before the Christian era, but it was not until the late 19th century that much use was made of magnetism. It gave man the beginnings of electricity. Of course long before that the early magnetic compass was developed, in the period 1000-1100 A. D. About 1600 A. D. a physician-philosopher wrote that the earth itself is a magnet, and that magnetism was an animate force similar to human life. He said, "You can compare magnetism with human action in one of its peculiarities. When a magnetized iron bar is heated to a bright red it loses its magnetic attraction and doesn't regain it until it cools off. When man becomes heatedly agitated he too loses his attraction and his efficiency drops to zero." Each one of us here tries never to forget this, for we want to attract you with the smoothest attraction of all, your maximum economy and satisfaction. Kommler Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 206, opposite Princeton Airport, WA 1-2222.

Three days later, on January 7, Mayor and Council met in an agenda meeting. The next morning the Mayor telephoned the Executive Director and said the Council believed the price of the land might be too high. (Determining whether it can afford to acquire land is a function of the Housing Authority.) The Mayor said, "the Council did not want to pursue the matter of publicly-assisted housing for middle-income people, or for the elderly and those of low income."

We hope that enough people will see merit in this proposal to warrant public discussion.

Status Quo Dangerous.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Is there a crying need for new apartment housing in Princeton? If so, a partial answer came the other night at a meeting of the Borough Planning Board, when an elaborate proposal was made to build a 252-apartment complex on the east side of North Harrison Street. It is an 8-acre site on the location of the old quarry, long since filled in with rock and soil obtained from the Firestone Library excavation.

The apartments were designed mostly for retired and single persons — 80 percent with only one bedroom, with provision for underground parking. The buildings would have occupied only 20.4 percent of the eight acres, with the remainder set aside for lawns and gardens.

I am using the past tense because the proposal took off with all the buoyancy of a lead balloon. It did not take off at all. Its advocate presented only the basic facts, offering no arguments.

The opposition was mild. The atmosphere was cool and urbane. You could almost hear a cliché drop. It was as though everyone had decided we had come to bury Caesar, not to praise or condemn him.

The reason for this atmosphere soon became evident when one of the board members expressed the fear that the new apartments might "entice" people to Princeton. He admitted he might be charged with snobbery, but he did not feel it necessary to defend himself. In other words, the only person or thing to come out of the meeting with colors flying and band playing was Old Man Status Quo.

I had a personal interest in the venture, so my remarks are subject to discount. Still, is it not true that the cavalier pigeon-holing of this project is significant of a state of mind that conceives of Princeton as a medieval walled city, resistant to change, fearful of an invasion of Visigoths?

Is it not possible that the apartments might have eagerly been welcomed by true and native Princetonians who, by reason of age or other circumstance — Continued on Page 18

Question of the Week

Question: In your opinion, do you think President Kennedy can be beaten in 1964 or not?

Where asked: Princeton Shopping Center.

Charles Parker, 29 Natrona Avenue, Trenton, carpenter: No, I don't think he can. It may be a close race again but I don't think the Republicans will be able to come up with anybody who can beat him. So far, I think Kennedy has done a good job and I think most of the people think so, too.

Russell Harle, 46 Edgewood Road, Trenton, carpenter: No, I don't think so. I think the people want to give Kennedy more time to get his programs through. Also, I don't think the Republicans have anybody who they can put up against him.

Peter Suedfeld, 410-B Devereux Avenue, graduate student, psychology: Yes, I think he can. I think he has disappointed a lot of people by being unable to carry out many of the campaign promises he made in 1960.

Mrs. Richard Oleott, 411-B Devereux Avenue, teacher: I'd say if we continue without any crises which, say, the Democratic Party can't handle to the public's satisfaction or unless the Republicans come up with an extremely outstanding candidate, then I feel Kennedy will not be beaten in '64.

Burt Baum, 182 Snowden Lane, research chemist: No, unless there is a major disaster such as a war or a depression, some unforeseen catastrophe. Even if we had a war, I don't think it would stop Kennedy from being reelected; it would have to be something more like a depression. As it stands now, I don't think even his brother, Bobby, could beat him.

Mrs. Ren F. Conger, Riverside Drive, housewife: Oh, yes, for many reasons. Because there is always the possibility of a new man, a new idea. Current events will shape an election at the time of the election. Things change so rapidly today you can't be sure of anything.

Armour Thomas, Dutch Neck, engineering technician, Forrester Research Center: I hate to say it but I don't think so. I feel the working man, the union-man are all for him. This makes a difference. He's too much of a something-for-nothing type of president for me but the guys at work just sit around and rave about him and I can't say anything.

Mrs. Sandy Perone, Skillman, housewife: I feel it depends a lot on who his running mate is. Off hand, I wouldn't think so, but if I knew who his running mate was going to be, I'd feel a lot more certain of my answer.

Lester Duryea, 82 Linden Lane, contractor: I don't think so. If Rockefeller runs against him, Rockefeller is going to get beaten. Kennedy will be rough. I think he is a good man. I think he's done a good job so far, considering what he's had to do with. I don't think Ike could have done any better.

Mrs. Rolland T. McMillen, Penn Lyle Road, Princeton Junction, housewife: It would certainly depend a lot on who he's going to run against, but I feel there is every chance for him to be beaten. Lately, I don't feel the Cuban situation has done him any good. There has been too much adverse criticism about it. World-wide opinion on Cuba hasn't helped him, either.

Richard Knowles, 302 Nassau Street, plumbing foreman: No, I don't. The party in power always has the edge and I just don't feel that Kennedy can be beaten.

Mrs. Claire Shupe, Edinburg, housewife: I think he may and then he may not. It's hard to say. I will say I think he has a good chance. He's got quite a personality and people seem to go for that. And Jacqueline has a lot to do with it. I think she has helped him a lot. People like her.

Joseph Hamran, Nottingham Way, Trenton, employee for Mozer Coal and Fuel Oil Co.: I think so, sure. Any one can always be beaten. I hear a lot of people speaking about him and a lot of them don't like him. There are a certain number who don't like what he's done so far, and a lot of these are the same ones who voted for him.

Miss Judy Purdum, Blawenburg, telephone operator: No, I don't. I just feel he's been doing a good job and he always will. Too many people are for him. But I won't vote for him because I'm a Republican.

Richard Mann, 400-A Devereux Avenue, graduate student, chemistry: I doubt it very seriously. I think he has built up some sort of image among the masses and that people vote on this image rather than the issues. Republican-Protestant that I am, I think he's done a creditable job. It would take a great crisis or a great failing in his administration and leadership to occur to stop him now and I am doubtful this will occur. Since 1929, the president has always been elected to a second term with the exception of Hoover and he was the victim of the Depression. Kennedy is such an astute politician that even if a crisis were to befall him, he would probably be able to handle it in such a way that it would not damage him. Plus, he always has had a good, terribly-efficient political machine in back of him. The Republicans have some good men, but I don't see anyone who can beat him now. Maybe in '68 but not in '64.

Mrs. Mary Regrut, 48 Erdman Avenue, RN: No, he can't! He's a good president. He's good for this country, in my opinion. I don't see how anyone can beat him.

James Edwards, Kingston, steam engineer: Yes, I do. I think anyone can be beaten. I think that the only way Kennedy can verify his promises is to run this country so far into debt it will never recover. The only way out I can see is another war. That's the Democrats' way of doing things: they solve one problem but they leave you with an even bigger problem. People are forgetting about the national debt. We could have had anything we have today 20 or 30 years ago if we had been willing to go into debt as far as President Kennedy is willing to take us.

stances, want to live in apartments rather than houses? Is it not true that the University itself has been quick to provide apartments for its own community, as has the world famous Institute for Advanced Study?

No one wants to transform this loveliest village of the plain into a howling and raucous metropolis, but is there not room for orderly change and improvement for, say a better-looking business section, free of crippling restrictions that defy the ingenuity of private enterprisers? Old Man Status Quo has some admirable rock-ribbed qualities — and a properly Colonial facade — but he can murder you, too, if you turn Princeton over to him.

Student Behavior Supported.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Mrs. Mary M. Doerler's attack (or counter-attack?) on Princeton University under graduates in her letter published in TOWN TOPICS was neither "rude, crude, (nor) profane" but it was "unfair."

For well over two years I have frequently used such university facilities as Firestone and Fine Hall libraries, the U-store, McCarter and Murray theatres, the Student Center Cafeteria, and Alexander and McCosh auditoriums, and I have yet to meet a student who did not possess a dignity and poise belying his youth.

Townpeople who view student behavior (and behaviorism) at the local movie theatres with dismay admit that the film often merits the vicious group therapy occasionally in evidence there. Such conduct is totally absent at the McCarter Classic Film Series, where generally finer films are shown at a much lower admission charge.

The Town and Borough are greatly enriched by university activities, cultural and other. I believe that non-participants in these activities are entitled to a view of student behavior other than Mrs. Doerler's.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

In all the discussion the past weeks about the best location for the Public Library, why has not someone come up with the suggestion that the Nassau Street School building, after it has been vacated as a school, be used for both a public library and a borough hall?

It is a great stone structure in very good condition with three floors, a large auditorium, a gymnasium, a kitchen and many ample well-lighted class rooms.

Moreover, if an overnight job is necessary in town, a portion of the school basement would more than suffice. Furthermore, there is large parking space in the rear with at present three entrances — two from Nassau Street and one from William Street — and its location is very central for all who would be going both to the library and the borough hall.

Surely the price that any corporation would pay for the school property would not cover what would be the cost of a new library and a new borough hall.

Now what valid objections can be made to this suggestion?

THE LORD'S Forgotten PRAYER

Millions of people have been impressed by the beautiful and touching words of Jesus in his prayer recorded in Matthew 6:9-13. Even small children have become familiar with this prayer, which begins with the words "Our Father who art in heaven, hallowed be thy name . . ." This prayer has become so well-known that it is now referred to as "The Lord's Prayer."

Yet, another of Jesus' prayers has been virtually forgotten. This was the prayer he uttered his last night upon the earth.

For what would Jesus pray in such a crucial hour? That his betrayal might be averted? That he might not be forsaken and denied? Our Lord prayed for none of these things. Here is a portion of this prayer of Christ—a prayer too long and too often ignored:

"Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word: That they all may be one; as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us: that the world may believe that thou hast sent me. And the glory which thou gavest me I have given them; that they may be one, even as we are one: I in them, and thou in me, that they may be made perfect in one; and that the world may know that thou hast sent me, and hast loved them, as thou hast loved me."

Plainly, Jesus prayed for the unity of his disciples. He recognized his influence in the world would be magnified if his followers stood as one. Would Jesus have prayed for something that would be impossible to achieve? Was he a mere idealist?

Christ not only prayed for unity, but also left a plan for achieving it. This plan, based on a respect for the authority of Christ, is revealed in the New Testament. It consists of four basic principles:

1. All-sufficiency of the word of God as the only creed. "All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness: That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." (2 Timothy 3:16,17). Human creeds represent a source of division.

2. All-sufficiency of the divine name. "Yet if any man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed; but let him glorify God on this behalf" (1 Peter 4:16). Denominational names represent a source of division.

3. All-sufficiency of the spiritual Body of Christ. "And hath put all things under his feet, and gave him to be the head over all things to the church, which is his body, the fulness of him that filleth all in all" (Ephesians 1:22,23). Differing religious federations, conferences, conventions, synods, and other organizations represent a source of division.

4. All-sufficiency of the gospel plan of salvation. The gospel is described as the "power of God unto salvation" (Romans 1:16). Our Lord commands men to obey terms of the gospel—through faith, repentance, confession, and baptism. And when one is baptized into Christ he is simultaneously added to the spiritual Body of Christ and is thus made complete "in Christ" (1 Corinthians 12:13 and Colossians 2:10).

When men insist on the right to have divisive creeds; when they insist on the right to wear denominational names; when they insist on the right to have a religious hierarchy and human organizations; and when they insist on the right to determine terms of church membership—when they do all of this, they are insisting on the right to perpetuate religious division.

Jesus prayed for unity, and every believer in Christ should submit to the divine plan for bringing it about. Oneness in Christ is a paramount teaching of the New Testament: "There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling; One Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all" (Ephesians 4:4-6).

LUCCARELLI PAINTINGS
New Show at Gallery 100.
From March 11 through 30, paintings by Antonio Luccarelli will be shown at Gallery 100.
Mr. Luccarelli learned the craft of painting in Naples before he came to live in Princeton, where he graduated from Princeton University in the Department of Art and Archeology.

While at the University, he studied with James E. Davis and explored with him the expression of motion. He kept on painting during the years after college when he worked for an architectural firm and in 1960, while on an assignment in Puerto Rico, he was given his first one-man show, after which he decided to devote full time to painting as a career.

Italy Influences Work. His native Italy still has a tremendous pull for him and he expresses what so many people sense in visiting that fascinating country: that, in Italy, great Art, "the refinement of Humanity," is a part of everyone's daily life. One lives and breathes among masterpieces of Art, Architecture and Music and to work in that atmosphere is to work with constant inspiration. He intends to live there again.

Many of his subjects and much of his color come from the Italian scene, towns and harbors, hillsides punctuated by cypress. With his background in Architecture, it is natural that he should play with forms and their relationship to one another, as he does in building "Italian Town" into a pattern of color which he takes right out of the Mediterranean region; blue-greens and warm earth tones which reflect opaque light of sun absorbed by stone and water. In Puerto Rico he found the indigenous colors less vivid and "repetitious." In "Liquillo" he has painted its houses "growing like mushrooms" in an interesting "musical theme of even and mellow color."

TO DANCE FOR HEART FUND: The 15th annual program of the Peggy Longstreth Bayer School of Dance will be given for the benefit of the Heart Fund Saturday at 8 at Princeton High School. Featured in the "Sleeping Beauty" ballet sequence will be, l. to r.: Gail Greene, Mary Bayer and Ashley Putnam. Cossack, ballroom, ballet and tap dancing will be included in the program. (Staff Photo)

Abstractions Typical. More abstract landscapes are stylistic arrangements of somber color patches through which he pours black line with palette knife. This is a technique which he uses in his latest work, "Abstractions with Figures," which he considers representative of his painting.
These are two-dimensional surfaces in two colors, one merely to distinguish the other from the background, and with his story drawn again in "minimum line."

Other painting by this energetic and enthusiastic young Princeton artist may be seen at the Key Gallery in New York

At the Present Day Club.
Who hasn't felt the fascination of bridges, fragile at night strung with lights, powerful by day in full view of the mighty construction? Among Betty Adams' paintings at the Present Day Club, "Queensboro Bridge" conveys her fascination and ours for the darkening forms of the bridge seen from below with the city glowing through the river's haze beyond.

This is a scene which stirred her imagination when living in New York City many years ago. Recently she went back to see if it were still exciting.
It was, and from her memories
she has put together a picture strong in construction, luminous in light and mysterious in mood.

Varies Techniques. Betty
Adams is no slave to one school of Art or another as you can tell from her varying treatment of subject and pigment. She sees something which inspires her; perhaps an architectural mass which she feels is best expressed broadly, in fairly abstract terms with palette knife, or it may be the sunlight moving through the delicate leaves of a Pinoak tree for which intimate subject she chooses the

"The spirit of the thing must be right," she insists and she is uncompromising on that score. "Pinoak Foliage" was growing for years." She studied it out time and again, finishing complete drawings three times before it caught the exact relationship of sunlight and movement she wanted.

Most Colorful Pictures.
"Boats of Morning" and "Boats of Evening" are two pictures, more colorful than most, which are interesting to compare and to contrast. In each subject, the boats are drawn against simple background forms, but the mood has dictated the technique to be used in differentiating "morning" from "evening."

In the former, big bold strokes of brilliant blue and yellow pace the excitement and activity of daybreak on the waterfront. In "evening" the boats and distance, still rendered in palette knife, are, however, painted more calmly in sunset colors, the boats resting quietly at anchor in their own reflections.

This painting is a result of sound training and constant exercise. A lot of thought and sensitivity has gone into each canvas and "right spirit."

FRENCH EXHIBIT COMING

To McCarter. A current French exhibit at McCarter—photographs of the work of Jean Cocteau and Jean Giraudoux—will be followed Monday by an exhibition of 300 photographs tracing the career of Georges Melles, inventor of many cinematograph techniques. The exhibit will remain at McCarter until March

Melles' career began in 1896
when he attended the first exhibition given by the Lumiere Brothers in Paris. In later years, Melles gave many "magic theatre" productions which included such delights as a skeleton running away from its body, a man writing music with his own head, and so on.

He also produced longer films, like "Trip to the Moon" in 1902 and "Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Sea" in 1907. A pioneer in the filming of news events, he produced
"The Crowning of Edward VII" and "Eruption of Mount Pelee."

The exhibit is being circulated by the Cultural Services of the French Embassy.

NEAR MISS IMPRESSIVE

As Tigers Lose in Overtime, Bill Bradley got 40 points and a standing ovation unprecedented in Palestra history, but Princeton lost its tremendous bid Monday to move into the eastern semifinals of the NCAA Tournament. The Tigers went down before St. Joseph's in overtime, 82 to 81, after one of their finest performances on a basketball court.

Princeton's All-American gave renewed indication of true greatness as he again played the best game of his scintillating career when it counted most. When he fouled out with 3:41 to go, 9,200 fans — only 500 of whom had bought their tickets in Dillon Gym — rose to their feet and applauded for more than a minute.

After an extremely shaky start, the Tigers spent a good portion of the evening looking as if they might well pull a major upset against the tall, well-balanced Hawks, who took a 21-4 record against the east's best into the game. Down by 20 to 10 with nine minutes gone, they all but shot the roof off the Palestra as they threw in 17 points while holding St. Joseph's to 1.

At this juncture, they led, 29 to 23, and Bradley's man, Jim Boyle, was shortly to pick up his fourth personal foul. The Hawks rallied in the closing minutes of the half, cutting their deficit to 33-31.

Lead Grows Bigger. With Captain Art Hyland hitting on five straight shots, and Bradley connecting almost at will, Princeton came close to breaking the game open. Its biggest lead was 12 on three different occasions, and it held the margin as late as 8-42 to go.

Then trouble began, with an all-court press causing repeated control errors on the Tigers' part. St. Joseph's gained possession time and again without much loss on the clock, narrowing the margin to 73-64, 74-70 but trailing again by 77-72 when Bradley fouled out with just over three and a half minutes left.

That the Orange and Black could win without its superstar seemed inconceivable, but it was able to prolong the outcome by a five-minute overtime period. St. Joseph's drew even at 77-all with less than a minute to go, both teams lost opportunities to win in the dying seconds, and the extra session was in order.

Princeton scored first but trailed, 80-79 with 3:42 to go and never came even again. Bradley, eating his heart out on the bench, might well have made the difference but the constant need for his presence in the center of action under both boards had taken its toll in fouls.

The big sophomore hit on all 16 fouls shots and 12 of 21 field goal attempts. Hyland followed with 20; Bill Haarlou had 10. When the team bus reached the campus at 1:45 a.m. on a foggy, drizzly night, hundreds of undergraduates, backed by the band, firecrackers and cherry bombs, made it sound as if the Tigers had won the NCAA championship.

No one, it seems, can wait till next year.

SECOND HALF DECISIVE

In Triumph over Yale, When a team goes to the dressing room tied at half-time in a championship playoff, it has three possible routes to victory in the final period: a tighter defense that will cut down the opponents' productivity; a scoring surge that will place the burden of drawing even on the other team as the clock begins to run out; and an impenetrable freeze that will result in steady points at the free-throw line each time the opposition fouls in an attempt to gain possession.

Princeton is the 1963 Ivy champion because it achieved all three of these basic requisites to success against Yale in the Fordham gymnasium Friday. After having been held to a 29-all deadlock at the intermission, the Tigers rolled to a 65-53 triumph because they outscored the Blue in the second half, 36 to 24.

In order, Coach Bill van Breda Kolff's well-drilled operatives achieved these feats:

- They clamped such a vise on E.I. offensive maneuvers that the Blue did not score a basket until 5 minutes and 30 seconds of the final half were gone. So successful was Princeton's defensive maneuvering that the losers' shooting average dropped from 50% in the first half to 22% in the second.

- From a two-point (37-35) lead with 12 minutes left, Princeton moved out to 50-41 in the next five minutes. Of the Tigers' 13 points in this surge, Bill Bradley made 11 and fed Art Hyland on a fast break for the other two.

- In the last five minutes, the Tigers never tried a field goal. Each time they gained possession, they brought the ball down floor and went into a freeze highlighted by pinpoint passing and Hyland's picturesque dribbling. A tremendous 15-for-17 performance from the foul line by Bradley, Hyland and Don Roth served to run out the clock and put the game completely beyond Yale's reach in the final four minutes of play.

The Tigers' darkest moment came with 5:42 to go in the first half when Dennis Lynch hit on a jump from the foul line to give the Blue a 27-20 lead. In the next 90 seconds, however, Princeton raced back into a 29-27 lead, thanks largely to a three-point play by Hyland and a steal that was good for a quick two-pointer by Bill Howard.

The half-time tie and Yale's slow second-period start followed. Princeton was far more consistent in its shooting than the losers, hitting 48 percent for the evening and outrebounding the considerably taller opposition, 44 to 33.

Statistical Story. Bradley's 23 and Hyland's 22 points both topped Yale's high man, Rick Kaminsky with 21. Their shooting was also far superior. Hyland was 6 for 8 and Bradley 7 for 14 in contrast to the 23 shots Kaminsky took in order to make eight field goals.

Yale was tagged with 23 personal fouls in contrast to 15 for the Tigers, who used the one-and-one situation to such advantage that they had 36 free throws compared to 17 for the losers. As they have so many times this season, the Princetonians won from the foul line after being outshot (20 to 19) from the floor.

The playoff was the tenth in Ivy history, the fourth Princeton has won and the first in which Yale has been involved. Of the ten, Princeton has been in eight.

The championship is the third for Princeton in the last four years and it will go into the 1964 race a clear-cut favorite to repeat after finishing — Continued on Page 23 this season with ten straight Ivy victories. The Tigers' closest rival will be Yale — which loses only Captain Steve Goulding from the seven players who saw action in the playoff game.

TWO NAMED ALL-IVY

Bradley and Hyland Honored. Bill Bradley, who broke two league records and led every department in individual scoring in his first year in the league, was a unanimous All-Ivy selection on the team picked by the eight coaches. Each coach votes for players on the seven other teams, but not his own.

Princeton's captain Art Hyland received 13 out of a possible 14 points, while Yale's Rick Kaminsky, who missed three games with a broken hand, was a unanimous selection with Bradley. Rounding out the quintet are Cornell's captain, Jerry Szachara, a fine guard, and 6-8 Gene Barth of Brown.

Bradley's 385 points in 14 games — a playoff does not count in the final totals — led the individual scoring race by a huge margin. He was 136 points ahead of Szachara, the runner-up.

The 6-5 sophomore also topped the league in rebounds with 191, 41 more than Jerry Krumbein of Cornell, and in total field goals, foul shots and shooting percentages. His Ivy records were both made in free throws: 21 in one game (against Cornell at Ithaca) and 153 for the season.

INTERCOLLEGIATES HERE In Swimming This Weekend.

Forty-three colleges from Maine to North Carolina will take part in the annual Eastern Seaboard Intercollegiate Swimming Championships this weekend in Dillon Pool. The program will begin as early as 9:30 Thursday morning, when the diving preliminaries start, and continues afternoon and night both Thursday and Friday, and Saturday morning, afternoon and night.

Princeton will defend the team championship it won at New Haven a year ago when it compiled a startling 69 points to 60 for favored Yale. This time the Elis are again the pick with a stronger entry—in fact, one qualified estimate is that they may come close to equalling the points scored by the other 42 entries combined.

The Tigers will have four defending champions in the meet: Jed Graef, who won both backstroke titles in 1962; John Andrews in the one-meter dive and the medley relay team. Princeton is not quite as strong as it was a year ago, as indicated by its 48-47 loss to Army Saturday and its fourth-place finish in the Eastern League behind Yale, Harvard and the cadets.

MORE HONORS FOR COOK

All-Ivy for Third Time. Not that there was any doubt about Johnny Cook's place at the top of Princeton's hockey hierarchy but added confirmation came this week in two post-season announcements. Chosen to the All-Ivy team for a third straight year, he is the only player wearing Orange and Black ever to achieve this distinction.

Cook also won the league scoring title with 21 points, two more than Frank Bishop of Yale. He has tied for this same honor as a sophomore with Dave Leighton of Dartmouth.

Gerry Skoning, a forward on the Tiger varsity for the past two seasons, has been elected captain for 1963-64, succeeding Dave Hersey. The Tigers finished the season in a fourth place tie with Cornell when Dartmouth beat the Ithacans, 4-3, at Hanover on Saturday.

PHS OUSTED FROM NJSIAA

By South River, 19-47. Any hopes that the Princeton High School basketball team may have entertained of advancing in the Central Jersey Group 3 state championship were dashed aborning, as a result of an opening-round defeat by South River Friday evening at the Freehold High School court. The score was 49-47.

What's more, to make the loss doubly disappointing, neither PHS coach Tony Borzok, nor the team members themselves, expected to lose to South River. "I didn't expect to lose," said Borzok candidly. "I thought we would beat them by five, about 50-55."

"The kids felt they could take them all along. Even with 30 second to go and six points behind, they still felt they could beat them. But I guess it just wasn't in the cards for it to go our way."

Borzok added that he had hoped the team would get by the first round because, "I knew positively we would be able to take whoever won the Somerville-Watchung Hills contest" (Had they won, the Little Tigers would have faced Somerville Monday at the Rutgers University gymnasium). "But, I guess that's second guessing," he said, a little wistful over what might have been. It marked the second year in a row that PHS had been chosen to compete in the state tourney only to stumble in the first round.

It was a typical Princeton game, according to Borzok. "You're up and you're tight, you're behind and you're

HANK SCHMIDT
PHS Basketball Captain

When Hank Schmidt was a sophomore at Princeton High, the basketball team won just once. In his last two years, the Little Tigers wrapped up a total of 30 victories, and Coach Tony Borzok is quick to say that his 1963 captain was one of the biggest reasons for this welcome turn reversal.

The 17-year old Princetonian is a standout because he blends ability with hard work. A letter-winner in four sports (cross country, basketball, baseball, track), Hank is a solid two-way player—a defensive specialist who averages in double figures.

Time and again, the Little Tigers won low-scoring games because they excelled at paring down the opposition's scoring and even its shooting. Fine reflexes and coordination, often set into motion by his peripheral vision, frequently enabled Schmidt to steal the ball from the back-court player bringing the ball across the center stripe and dribble in for an easy layup.

A superbly conditioned athlete (he's a miler on the track team), Hank has a full supply of stamina for the demanding sport of basketball. "He's been a fine leader, a wonderful captain," Borzok reports. "He's respectful to his elders, obeys orders and yet is very much of a 'regular guy'—a rare blend these days."

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schmidt of 364 Nassau Street, Hank had an early chance to learn basketball fundamentals thoroughly—his father has coached the sport at Montclair State Teachers for two decades. The U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis is first on Hank's list as his possible address for the next four years.

Figures for the past season show that the Little Tigers' captain averaged better than 13 points a game and accounted for one point of every four that the Blue and White made throughout the season. He called the offensive patterns and set the PHS quintet on defense. He had such a thorough knowledge of the sport that he often accompanied Borzok on scouting trips.

Small wonder that his coach, turning his thoughts toward next winter, remarks that "Hank will be extremely hard to replace."

ahead. We were rolling along fine; we were ahead, each of South River's two big men had three personals, all we had to do was drive through. . . . Tony didn't finish.

Foul Shot; Decide. As in most Blue and White contests throughout the season, the game was decided in the final few minutes. The turning point came at the free throw line. In those crucial last minutes, South River displayed some clutch foul shooting, scoring four big points on one-and-one situations. Princeton, which out-scored the victors from the floor, 21-20, had only one foul shot in the entire fourth quarter.

Also squandered in defeat was a fine all-around performance by senior John Kowalski. From his center position, John hit on ten baskets and three free throws for a game-high of 23 points, and he also led both teams in rebounds with 20. He tallied two quick baskets in the final nine seconds to bring PHS up from a 49-43 deficit.

"John played a whale of a game. He was fantastic," said Borzok. "All the potential isn't taken out of that boy yet. He's only 17 and he'll go a long way if he stays with it. He has a bright future ahead of him."

There is every chance that Borzok's future will be equally as bright. Kowalski and Captain Hank Schmidt were the only seniors on this year's starting five. Returning next winter to form a strong nucleus will be Jimmy Case, Larry Madden and Dave Hill. In addition, the team's sixth man, 6-3 Tom Waters will be back.

There's experience there but nothing solid," Borzok admitted guardedly. "John and Hank made the club go and replacing them will be a problem. The material coming back will be a little jagged; it's a matter of putting the checkers together. We might get a 6-3 transfer from Ohio, too; you never know," he added, voicing the eternal hope of all coaches.

Reserves Win, Too. To add some icing to his cake, Borzok pointed out that the school freshman team coached by Harry Zoll was 12-2 this season, while coach George Povilis led the junior varsity to a 12-6 record. "We were 14-4 this year, so if these boys stay, things seem to be shaping up," said Borzok, who, having just finished his tenth year as head coach of the sport, would like to lead the Little Tigers through ten winning seasons in the decade to come.

In 1964, Tony will have a sharpshooter in Case who is extremely accurate with a one-handed push shot; a fine rebounder in Waters; a playmaker in Hill; and a steady performer in Madden, who can be counted on to score a certain number of points in each game. What is missing—and he may emerge from one of the four above—is a team leader, a role played so superbly by Hank Schmidt this year (see "We Congratulate"). If Tony can find a leader who can direct the clear potential of next year's squad, then PHS will have taken a giant step on the way to posting its third consecutive, victory-filled season.

SANNINO WINS TITLE

But Withdraws from Play-offs. To no one's surprise, Sannino A.C. won its final game of the season in the YMCA Research and Industrial League to finish with a perfect 14-0 record and the league championship. It then announced it had withdrawn from the play-offs—already underway—to allow the next four teams greater opportunity.

The chief benefactor of Sannino's decision was McGraw Hill which had finished fifth with a 5-9 record. The other three playoff participants include Educational Testing Service and RCA Labs, which ended competition tied for second place with 11-3 records, and RCA Astro.

In the final league contests, Dick Cooper hit for 30 points to lead Sannino to an 81-54 victory over the Post Office, while Charles Streeter led the losers with 21. RCA Astro ended with a 68-30 decision over Food Machinery and Chemical as Jim Spurlock collected 21 Astro points. Jerry Gallagher paced FMC with 10 points.

ETS' Tom Wallace and Al Meyers combined for 33 points, Wallace connecting for 16, in a 68-33 rout of McGraw Hill. Fred Schwartz tallied half of McGraw's points, pouring in

SANNINO IS DEFEATED

In March of Dime Finals. Before a capacity crowd which included a bus load of Princeton followers, Sannino A.C. was defeated, 107-102, by Burry Biscuit Thursday in the championship game of the March of Dimes Gold Medal Tournament held in Dunellen.

Without breaking stride, the peripatetic Sannino squad entered still another tourney, the Edison Invitational. It was scheduled to meet Rhinefield Realty Tuesday of this week at Edison in the opening round.

The Sannino-Burry contest was hotly-contested throughout. In the third stanza, Sannino's shots started to fall and it drew ahead to a 61-58 lead, after trailing, 49-41, at the half. Its margin proved to be short-lived. The defending champions unleashed a blistering shooting spree of their own to spurt to a 91-70 lead, and although Sannino refused to give up, the 21-point gap was too wide to close.

Former Princeton University star Carl Belz led both teams in scoring with 28 points. Some fine passing and rebounding added more lustre to his outstanding performance. He was backed up by

Baseball Contracts Due

Saturday is the deadline for signing baseball contracts for Princeton's YMCA Midget League, according to Robert C. Decker, Baseball Commissioner. A meeting of all league players, coaches and managers will be held at the Y building on Avalon Place from 2 to 3.

Contracts are available to all boys who will be not younger than 10 or older than 13 by June 30. Two additional teams have been added this year because of the number of boys who signed up last year and the Commissioner urges those who plan to send in contracts not to wait until the last minute.

All of last year's eligible players are urged to register as soon as possible. The season will start officially April 29.

Walt Mischner, Larry Ivan and Nate Bruno who combined for 51 points.

TRENTON Y DEFEATED

By Princeton All-Stars. Colin Leitch poured through 37 points to lead the Princeton YMCA All-Stars to a 73-67 victory over the Trenton YMCA quintet Saturday at the Trenton court. A return contest will be played Saturday, March 23, at the Princeton High School gym.

Coached by Larry Ivan, former standout for the Trenton Colonials, the All-Stars are undefeated over the past two years, having won eight consecutive contests. The public is invited to attend the game at Princeton High School.

SPORTS BANQUET FRIDAY

At the Hun School. The annual Hun School Winter Sports Banquet will be held Friday evening at 6:30 at the school.

Albert Twitchell, Athletic Director of Rutgers University, will be the guest speaker at the dinner which will honor winter sports athletes. Hun's athletic director, Hawley Waterman, will serve as master of ceremonies.

BOWLING NOTES

Grover Takes First. Grover Lumber swept three games last week and advanced from fifth to first place in the "A" League. Tied with two other teams the week before, the leaders moved into the top position last week with a total of 16 points.

Aversano Construction, Princeton Inn and Community Liquor are in a deadlock for second place, two points out of first. Gus Licari and Harry Golden each rolled games of 200 to tie for single-game scoring honors.

In the Industrial League, the Princeton Elks and Para Lab trimmed the Reformers' lead to two points, each sweeping three games. The leaders have a 20-point total and are ahead of the fourth-place Crescents by eight.

Jerry Perpetua topped the individual performances with a 227 score. Following him were George Ireland and Carlo Perantoni, 211 each; Nick Sculerati, 207; Ed Hughes, 203; Walt Bell, 198; and Pete Roman, 197.

Princeton Number One increased its lead in the Tri-County Firemen's League to 12 points. Kingston, with a total of 34 points, is in second place, two ahead of Mercer Number Three, the Princeton Junction Volunteers and Lawrenceville, all tied for third place.

Ken Luck and Frank Stofko shared scoring honors, with Luck bowling the top game of 232 and Stofko registering the top series, 185-221-214-620. Luck added games of 202 and 172 for a 606 set and Mike Kopliner also had a 600-plus series of 211-182-211-604.

Other outstanding games: Stan Donald, 212; Dick Anderson, 208 and 210; George Kirby, 203; Mel Tindall, 202; Bip Davison, 201; Iggy Mellugh, 199; Jack Richardson, 198, and George Willis, 197.

In the Women's Industrial League, the English Shop took three straight to break a tie and move four points up on Jefferson Plumbing. The leaders have a total of 24 points and are eight ahead of Mutual Benefit Life and nine in front of Bill's Men's Shop.

Lara Rose, who has the high average of 161, set a season single-game mark with a 213 score. Rose Zinetti had the top series with games of 165, 167 and 163 for a 500 set. PROTECT YOUR CHILDREN

THIS YEAR HALF A MILLION CHILDREN WILL SWALLOW POTENTIALLY POISONOUS SUBSTANCES — 500 WILL DIE!!

This unnecessary slaughter can be stopped if parents "poison-proof" their home. How many times can you say "Yes . . . my home is poison-proof."

YES NO

- ☐ ☐ Do you keep household products and medicines out of the sight and reach of children?
Even if you leave the room for an instant be sure the container is in a safe place.
- ☐ ☐ Do you store household products only in their original containers?
Cups, glasses, and soft-drink bottles are for food and beverages—not for bleach, kerosene, turpentine, etc.
- ☐ ☐ Do you store medicines separately from other household products?
- ☐ ☐ Are you sure that all your household products and medicines are properly labelled?
- ☐ ☐ Do you always call medicine by its proper name?
Medicine is not candy.
- ☐ ☐ Do you clean out your medicine chest and storage cabinets regularly?
- ☐ ☐ Do you use caution when you throw away an old container?
*The contents should be flushed down the drain and the container rinsed.*
